It gives me great pleasure to write this recommendation letter on behalf of Craig J. Craven. Since around 2010 Craig has worked with farmers, service providers, trade associations, and government agencies to improve aquacultural farming operations in China. The technology he promoted was not the least expensive, but it was the best solution, convincing the many people involved took lot of time and effort

Craig is a US citizen living in Japan with long experience in Asia, he has the ability to bridge the cultural gap between Asia and the West and can manage the sometimes complicated cultural differences between China, Japan and the West.

We highly recommend Craig to anyone who wishes to conduct business in Asia.
